Note: Use of Trial Advocacy Towards the Concentration

From time to time, a section of Trial Advocacy will be offered which focuses on and utilizes course materials regarding child and/or family law. Students enrolled in such a section of Trial Advocacy may use the class as one of the two required "core electives." Otherwise, the course may only as a "qualifying skills course" towards the Concentration. Students may check with those teaching the section to determine whether the problems used in the Trial Advocacy class will have a specialized focus on child and/or family law issues.
